

Supporting Coös Youth on the Path to Adulthood: A conference for North Country professionals and youth advocates

New and Updated Research From the Coös Youth Study

Researchers from the UNH Carsey School present their latest findings on the following topics:

- How expectations and aspirations for the future while in high school link to education and employment outcomes in early adulthood.
- The effects of exposure to household chaos on adolescents' future plans and well-being.
- The lasting benefits of community attachment for well-being among young adults, with a focus on co-occurring symptoms of depression and substance misuse.
- The influence of attachment to Coös County before high school graduation on outmigration and insights for retaining young adults.
